Dr. George Domfeh,
Accra.

Dear Sir,

PUBLICATION OF DEFAMATORY STATEMENT AND DEMAND FOR RETRACTION AND APOLOGY.

We act as solicitors for Ransford Gyampo, Professor of Political Science at the University of Ghana and Acting Chief Executive Officer of the Ghana Shippers Authority (our Client). We have his instructions to write to you on the matter referenced above as follows:

1. We have been instructed that you were both invited guests on the popular TV3 current affairs programme “The Key Point” on Saturday, November 15, 2025.
2. Our further instructions are that while on the said programme with other panelists, your policy and intellectual disagreements with our Client became ascerbic, insulting and downright defamatory.
3. You claimed in a statement widely published on the popular national media platform that our Client is a Professor who sleeps with under-age girls. The statement was widely understood by many right-thinking members of the viewing public to mean that our Client is a paedophile.

4. This statement is not only reckless, it is patently false, malicious and presents a public image of our Client as hideously immoral and irresponsible.

5. You did not have any basis in fact or in law to make the statement attributed to you nor to believe in it.

6. Given the platform on which the publication was made, there is no doubt about the extensive damage that this profoundly defamatory statement has done to the reputation of our Client, a respected academic and a national thought leader.

7. We are directed to request you to retract the said offensive statement and apologize to our Client within 24 hours of you receiving this letter. To be satisfactory, your retraction statement and apology should be published on a similar prominent platform hosted by the media organization on whose network you made the impugned statement.

8. If you do not act as directed, we have the firm instructions of our Client to take legal action against you.

Please be advised.

Yours sincerely,
