TAGG Calls for Industrial Action Over Publican Ai Implementation

Traders Advocacy Group Ghana (TAGG) Demands Immediate Suspension and Review of Disruptive Publican AI Customs System. We hereby issue a grave warning concerning the catastrophic impact of the Publican AI system currently imposed on Ghana's trading environment. Despite ongoing engagement with government officials and relevant authorities, the devastating consequences remain unchecked and unaddressed.

The Publican AI has inflicted severe disruption by imposing:

- Excessive and unsustainable duty assessments based on flawed AI-generated valuations.
- Persistent and unjustifiable delays in cargo valuation and clearance processes.
- Escalating demurrage and rent charges on enclosed goods, compounded by the complete absence of a fair and accessible valuation appeals mechanism.

The current system operates under questionable legality, handled by TRUEDARE Investment Limited an entity lacking experience and bona fide expertise in managing such critical data institutions.

In response, TAGG has initiated legal action against the responsible authorities and called for immediate government intervention.

To bring urgent national attention to this crisis, TAGG directs all importers and traders to wear Red Armbands and its affiliates, agents, and freight forwarders to commence an industrial strike, laying down tools at all ports and entry points from Monday, 13th to Friday, 17th, 2026.

Through this decisive action by all stakeholders, TAGG demands:

1. The immediate suspension of the Publican AI system pending a comprehensive review.
2. The restoration of lawful, transparent, and predictable valuation practices.
3. Immediate financial relief measures to alleviate the crippling burdens placed on traders and importers.

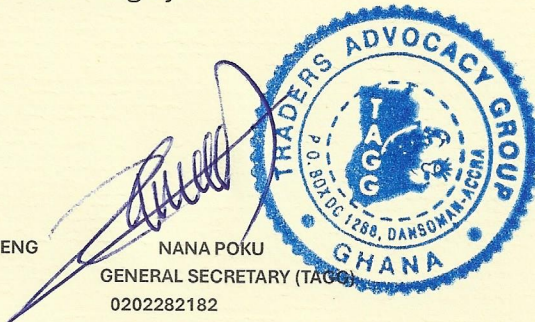

TAGG reaffirms its commitment to lawful and constructive engagement. However, we will relentlessly defend the survival of Ghanaian businesses and the integrity of our trading system.

Long live Ghana.
Long live TAGG.
